Postdoctoral Residency

Jennifer Vargas Pemberton, Ph.D.
Director of Training at Balboa Site

The Child & Family Guidance Center Balboa site provides extensive psychotherapeutic services to children through the age of 18 and their families with a specific focus on child abuse and trauma intervention. Treatment services are provided to a culturally diverse population in which physical abuse, sexual abuse, domestic violence or other trauma has taken place or where there is a risk of abuse and/or neglect. Our intervention and prevention services are offered both at the Center, at various sites throughout the community, and through teletherapy.

Evidenced-based individual, family, and group treatment are offered, as well as parent education and domestic violence prevention groups at various schools and head-start sites in the San Fernando Valley. In addition, services are provided at the local office of the Department of Children and Family Services. All services are provided in both English and Spanish.

Additional services include comprehensive psychodiagnostic assessment, crisis intervention, home-based services and community outreach.

Postdoctoral Residency Training Program

The focus of the postdoctoral residency is to provide comprehensive and in-depth training on the issues and treatment of child abuse and trauma. The postdoctoral resident will have the opportunity to develop clinical and assessment skills with children who have experienced sexual and/or physical abuse or are at risk of abuse and neglect. The postdoctoral resident will provide therapy using evidenced-based treatment modalities and also participate in a variety of training seminars and intensive supervision. Postdoctoral residents will have a broad range of additional opportunities to learn and strengthen skills that they will need as professional psychologists. These may include training in crisis intervention, community outreach, providing in-service presentations to trainees and conducting research projects.

The typical program will include the following weekly requirements:

Direct Services

- Individual/Family Psychotherapy
- Group Treatment
- Psychodiagnostic Assessments
- Intake Assessments
- Outreach Opportunities

Some common questions about the program:

When does the training program begin?

The postdoctoral residency is a full-year program that commences at the beginning of September and continues until the end of August.

Is the postdoctoral program full-time?

Yes. The postdoctoral resident is required to work 40 hours per week. Two weeks vacation is allotted during the training year with sick time as necessary. The Center is closed between Christmas Eve and New Years Day.

Is there any stipend?

Yes. Stipends start at $60,000 but may go higher depending upon skills and level of experience.

Are there any particular days or hours required?

Residents will be expected to be at the Center five days per week, at least two to three evenings per week to meet the needs of our working clients and late-afternoon and evening group treatment times. The seminar schedule will also dictate the day or days required. The Center is open Monday through Thursday 8:30AM to 8:00PM and Friday 8:30 AM to 6:00 PM. It will also be open on Saturdays allowing the resident to substitute Saturday appointments for some evening hours. Some on-call responsibilities will be required.

Is there some flexibility in the kinds of activities/opportunities that the postdoctoral resident may have?

Yes. The program will be tailored to meet the individual training needs of the postdoctoral resident.
